LETTER FROM BRIAN MCTEAR

September 2017

This past year has certainly been a turbulent one. The recent election in the U.S. created unprecedented political chaos, division and social unrest, and people across the world are feeling these effects. For us here at Weathervane, we have felt even more motivated to keep doing what we do: enabling people everywhere to make, record and listen to music that is important in both quality and content.

Times like these truly highlight the important role that music plays in our lives. Music gives voice to our emotions — joy, sadness, and even frustration and rage. But ultimately, the importance is in the fact that this kind of communication can heal division, and music often begins that conversation. As 2016 progressed, all of us at Weathervane really valued the fact that our work supports the everyday person's ability to self-express—particularly now, when we need our voices the most.

I am grateful for the fact that within the Weathervane Community, many of us so far know little about each other besides the fact that we love listening to, making, learning about, and supporting music. None of us thinks exactly alike, but we all believe in the power of music.

So we will continue to envision a future where everyday people can enjoy a lifetime of creating music, reflecting who they are and their experience living on this planet. We will continue to provide the tools, the community, and the resources for a lifelong journey of self-expression. In my own humble opinion, this is important work, and an effort on our part to do some good!

Thank you for your efforts in supporting, protecting, and uplifting this incredible community!

With Love and Appreciation,

Brian McTear

Every year Weathervane Music produces Shaking Through, a documentary video series designed to inspire and educate the public about the creative processes that go into recording music.

Artists come to Philadelphia from near and far to record one song in two days, as we share their experiences in beautiful videos. Our Supporting Members enjoy the rare benefit of participating in the creative process itself, as they download and remix the original multitracks from the recordings, and share their work back with other members on Shaking Through episode pages.

The fiscal year began with the respected songwriter and producer Luke Temple (Here We Go Magic) producing the song "Mother" with Big Thief, an incredible band whose star is truly on the rise. In the early Summer The War on Drugs' Charlie Hall and David Hartley brought the jazz-inspired, synth exotica solo artist, Frank LoCrasto to record "Daytona", an instrumental with an infectious groove, and a museum-worth of vintage synthesizers. Next we recorded "Private Moon" by Carroll, a modern synth meets psych-rock band recently relocated from Minneapolis to Philadelphia. In December we recorded Lea Thomas, a Hawaiian-born naturalist and singer-songwriter, who along with Caleb Lindskoog of the band Magmana and Quilt's Anna Fox Rochinski recorded the beautiful "Wild As You Are". Our final release of the fiscal year was with Waxahatchee, a band on Merge Records led by songwriter Katie Crutchfield, whose forthcoming album 'Out in the Storm' was one of the most eagerly anticipated releases of 2017. Their song "No Curse" was recorded the day after the presidential inauguration. As millions of people marched in support of women and their rights, we were happy to be supporting a young woman who makes music to which others really connect.

For the ninth year in a row, Weathervane has enjoyed its partnership with the recording studio Miner Street Recordings. In 2017 we also celebrated another year with Expressway Cinema Rentals who provided camera, lighting, and crew resources for each episode, and we continued relationships with manufacturers Rode Microphones, Earthquaker Devices and Dizengoff Audio. For our events, we were lucky to have the support of Rustica Pizza, Reanimator Coffee, Philly Style Bagels, and Sly Fox Brewery. We can not thank all these supporters enough for their dedication to this incredible project.

The Weathervane EDU Program packages educational materials for instructors and their students learning the art and science of recording music.

These unique materials include audio files from the extensive, growing catalog of Shaking Through and Weathervane Recording Workshops, along with special "How-To" texts outlining recording techniques developed by Weathervane over the years.

Weathervane EDU was initially built and launched in 2015 with a leadership grant from The Muse Educational Foundation. With the support of the community, Weathervane EDU not only provides a stable new stream of revenue, but it also introduces the work and programs of Weathervane (Shaking Through, Recording Workshops and more) to a new, younger audience.

Since 2013 Weathervane has been exploring unique ways to help our members explore the creative process of making music.

Since introducing Membership in 2013, Weathervane has provided the community with access to high quality audio files from every season of Shaking Through. By exploring the raw tracks, mix stems, and drum samples from these recordings, members learn about the fundamental building blocks of a song. With this, they understand all music, from the music of their youth, to songs they hear on the radio today, in profoundly new ways.

As members remix and share their reimagined versions of these songs, they compare approaches and techniques with the rest of the community. The result is an ongoing conversation that includes hundreds of people from all over the world. The listener becomes a part of the creative process - this is perhaps one of the most original and beautiful aspects of Weathervane's work.

Private Studio Concert

Carroll & Hemming

June 9th, 2017

In one beautiful Summer night, Weathervane Music presented a private studio concert with Philadelphia's Hemming and Carroll. The concert was captured on video and recorded by Miner Street engineers for later release. Both groups were featured Shaking Through artists earlier in 2015 and 2016. The night was an incredible opportunity for Weathervane members, staff and supporters to meet and interact with the artists and one another.

Recording Workshops

Chrome Els "Gold"

September 2016

For the first time since we began offering recording workshops, Weathervane produced a neo-soul track featuring Chrome Els, all local graduates of University of the Arts and Temple University, and easily some of the most talented musicians we've ever seen.

Hardwork Movement "Becca's Jam"

January 2017

In the cold of winter we were honored to produce a brand new track with the Philadelphia hip-hop collective Hardwork Movement. This group is one of the most positive and energetic we've ever worked with. It is easy to see why they are quickly beginning to dominate the local scene, and we expect there are big things ahead for this band.

King Azaz "Bury the Pit"

March 2017

For this two day session we recorded King Azaz, a punk rock two-piece from West Philadelphia. "Bury the Pit" was the first Weathervane session recorded entirely to tape since Sharon Van Etten's "Love More", and it turned out beautifully.

Interminable "Consecuencia"

July 2016

This session was really cool for us, being almost solely acoustic instruments. The band leader Ximena Violante plays the jarana and sings, writing in the style of traditional son jarocho, and influenced by a fusion of jazz, funk, and rock.
